Why We Are Here

A postsecondary education unlocks opportunities for students and entire communities. Yet for millions of underserved students, it remains out of reach. New York City is the largest school district in the country, serving 1.1 million students, but only 24% of Black and 24% of Latinx 9th graders in our city attain an associates or bachelor's degree within six years of high school graduation, compared to 45% of their white peers*. This is not for lack of ambition or talent, but for lack of opportunity and support.

Our Results

Enrollment
87% of OneGoal Fellows in New York enroll in a postsecondary institution

Persistence
76% of those persist one year after high school graduation

Building a Generation of Graduates in New York

Our three-year model is built into the school day. It begins as a credit-bearing class during junior and senior year, then continues with virtual support through the first year of postsecondary.

Students explore many pathways to identify what postsecondary option is the best match for their aspirations

Educator training to become OneGoal Program Directors, postsecondary experts

Culturally responsive curriculum includes exploration and skill building alongside raising GPA + SAT scores, completing FAFSA, and personal statements

Tech-enabled platform provides Program Directors and students with real-time data

Special Opportunities → College Visits // Student Summit // Enrollment Grant

The OneGoal program has the potential to transform lives and the schools where it is implemented. It is such an important part of the urban education challenge, and I am thrilled to be growing as an educator and being given this opportunity to develop as a leader.”
